FIRE SAFETY REPORT GIVEN COUNTY BOARD

Teachers' institute in Adams County may be combined with that of other neighboring counties in the future, according to plans being considered by county school authorities. Superintendent C. P. Keefer reported to the Adams County School Board, which met in the superintendent's office Friday night, that discussions have taken place between his office and school officials in York and Cumberland Counties.

He also reported on recommendations which the Department of Labor and Industry has made regarding fire safety conditions in the York Springs and Abbottstown Elementary Schools. The naming of a school board for the "lower end" of Tyrone Twp. when the remainder of the township becomes a part of the merged district in the Upper Adams system July was also discussed.

The board set the salary of Miss Joan Habecker, teacher employed for the special education class in Fairfield Joint High School, at $3,800 per year. Miss Habecker succeeds Mrs. Virginia L. Ferris as teacher of the secondary class in that school.

Fire Inspections

The two schools are the only ones in the county for which Labor and Industry inspections and recommendations have been reported. Keefer said, but information from the Department of Public Instruction is to the effect that all schools are in for a closer look. Action on the recommendations will be up to the school boards of the schools.

The Abbottstown school must enclose the boiler room, install a fire-resistive ceiling in the basement, enclose a stairway between the first and second floors and install an approved fire alarm system.

It was brought out that the school has a fire alarm system now but that it does not meet state requirements. A steel fire escape is required to replace the present outside wooden stairway.

Course Of Action

For the York Springs building, the requirements are similar, except that, since the building is one story, the stairway fire escape provisions are not included. The local school boards are directed to (Continued On Page 3)

UPPER ADAMS LIONS TO HEAR "LUM" HARRIS

C. L. "Lum" Harris, third base coach for the Baltimore Orioles, will be the speaker Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the annual "Father-Son Night" to be held by the Upper Adams Lions Club in the Biglerville Elementary School, Secretary Roderick M. Laird announced today.

The 44-year-old Chalmers Luman Harris is one of the most popular after dinner speakers in the Baltimore area since his arrival there in 1955 from Chicago with General Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, Laird said.

Twenty-two years in professional baseball, Harris has been associated for 20 of those years with two managers, Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and Paul Richards.

Began Career In '37

He began his baseball career in 1937 at the age of 22 with the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association as a pitcher with Paul Richards as catcher. The following year Richards was managing the team and Harris won ten games as a pitcher to help capture the championship in its league. Connie Mack brought Harris to the American League at the end of the 1940 season and he remained with the A's until 1947 when he spent a season with the Washington Senators. In 1948 he was sent to Buffalo, then managed by Richards, and worked both as a pitcher and a coach. In 1951 when Richards was appointed manager of the White Sox, Harris joined him as his assistant and three years later when Richards came to Baltimore, Harris accompanied him. Harris coached third base for the American League All-Stars last July when the American League defeated the National League 4-3.

Laird said Tuesday's meeting was arranged by the safety committee comprising John C. Brown, chairman, Bruce Sheets, Robert Strine, Joseph Sunbury and Lloyd W. Kleinfelter. Prizes will be awarded to some of the sons present, including autographed baseballs.

Three Countians In State Band

Three Adams County high school students are members of the Eastern Division All-State Band which will present its final concert tonight in the West York Area High School auditorium at 8 o'clock. The band also gave a concert Friday evening. James W. Dunlop, professor of music education at the Pennsylvania State University and conductor of the university's Blue Bands, is the guest conductor.

The county musicians include Paul Lupp of Gettysburg High School, alto clarinet; Nancy Wenk, Biglerville High School, solo clarinet; and Hugh Roberts, Littlestown High School, solo clarinet.

COUNTY MUSIC FESTIVAL HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Approximately 360 boys and girls of the high schools of the county will come to Gettysburg next Wednesday for the annual Adams County Music Festival to be presented at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium here under the direction of guest conductors.

The students, who already have had several rehearsal sessions, will come to the local high school Wednesday morning to spend the day preparing for the evening concert by junior and senior high school choruses and a band of 120 pieces.

Directing the band will be James W. Dunlop, professor of music education at the Pennsylvania State University and director of the university concert and marching Blue Bands.

To Direct Choruses

The guest conductor for the choruses will be Dr. John D. Raymond, director of music at Lafayette. He also is choir director there, directs the marching and concert bands and a string ensemble. Before going to Lafayette, he trained state and national chorus champions at Coatesville and Lower Merion High Schools.

He is on the Fred Waring Workshop staff in the summertime. He also will direct the district choral festival at Columbia in April.

Prof. Dunlop, who has been at Penn State since 1947, is a Mansfield State Teachers' College graduate and received his master degree from the University of Michigan in 1939. Before going to LSU he taught music at Mt. Jewett, Farrell and Emporium. In addition to being guest conductor for the Pennsylvania State Eastern District band at York this weekend, he will conduct the Maryland and Florida State bands this year and has other district band assignments.

He is a former president of the Pennsylvania Music Educators' Association and president and secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Collegiate Bandmasters' Association and is a member of the American Bandmasters' Association.

Faces 2nd Charge Of Forgery Here

William P. Jacobs of Jacobs Brothers Store, Lincoln Square, filed a check for forgery charge against Jerry G. Malone, now in the county jail on a similar charge.

A hearing will be held this afternoon before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Justice Basehore said the check was in the amount of $10 signed by Elsie Malone, wife of the defendant.

Malone allegedly signed his wife's name to checks totaling $300 for which there were "insufficient funds" in the bank. Individual checks were made out in the amounts of $10 to $25. He was arrested Thursday morning by borough police at his home on Breckenridge St.

The first forgery check charge was filed before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder Thursday by Dave Oyler Motors. The check was for $25. A hearing on this count is scheduled for this evening before Justice Snyder.

GET $438 PAYMENT

The State Council of Civil Defense today announced $438 had been sent the borough of Littlestown as CD matching funds to help pay for additions to the firemen's Civil Defense communications system in that community.

Littlestown and 22 other counties, cities, boroughs and townships received a total of $27,534.19 in the distribution of the CD matching funds by the state.

ARREST 3 FOR THEFT OF JUNK

Two men and a juvenile were arrested Friday by state police on charges of stealing farm equipment, parts and junk from Fred W. Green, Gettysburg R. 2.

Both men, Wayne Howard Record, 18, Gettysburg R. 1, and Franklin Herman Bowers, 23, Gettysburg R. 1, entered pleas of guilty before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore on the charges at a hearing Friday. Record posted bail for court, and Bowers was placed in jail in default of bail.

State police said the two men, and a 17-year-old youth who will appear before juvenile court on similar charges, had gone to the Green farm over a period of time and moved the farm equipment, parts, cable and junk from various spots on the Green property to a woodlot on Green's land near the home of one of the men.

Then they attempted to sell the articles to a local junk dealer. This week, police said, the men had disposed of about $150 worth of the $250 worth of articles they had gathered together, but their sale of the articles led to suspicion and inquiry and ultimate arrest. About $100 worth of articles and junk was found in the woodlot, according to the police.

Danish Ship Missing After Hitting Iceberg In North Atlantic; 95-130 Aboard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A U.S. Navy patrol plane and a German trawler continued searching today for the Danish cargo-passenger ship Hans Hedtoft, last reported sinking after hitting an iceberg in the North Atlantic.

The little German vessel, the Johannes Krues, continued the search after reporting earlier that ice and heavy seas would force her to give up.

Other ships and planes headed for the stormy, ice-caked area off the southern tip of Greenland to join in the hunt.

$1,800 DAMAGE BUT NONE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Five persons escaped injury while damage totaled $1,800 when two cars collided two miles south of here on the Littlestown Rd. Friday night at 8:30 o'clock.

State police said Helen M. Huff, 29, Gettysburg R. 1, was driving south and sought to make a left turn from the highway into the private drive at her home.

Her car had turned east when it was struck in the rear by another southbound auto operated by James Harampolis, 45, Kenmore, N. Y., according to the officers.

The Harampolis sedan, damaged to the extent of $1,500, spun around in the highway and came to rest some distance south of the accident scene crosswise in the center of the road.

New Yorker Fined

The Huff car, after being hit, spun around, crossed the highway and went about halfway down an embankment before it was stopped by crashing into some trees. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $300.

Harampolis and his son, Gary, occupants of the one vehicle, escaped injury. Also uninjured were the occupants of the other car, Mrs. Huff and Mary Elizabeth and Donna Marie Sadler.

State police took Harampolis before Justice of the Peace John Whitman, Cumberland Twp., and brought a charge of driving too fast for conditions against the New York man. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs to the justice.

SPEAKER FOR LIONS

40 APPEAR TO PROTEST PLAN FOR LAND-FILL

Forty protesting residents of the Lincoln highway east area met Friday night with the Straban Twp. Board of Supervisors to complain of plans to place a sanitary land-fill operation in the Granite Station area.

The 40 caught the supervisors by surprise, for the supervisors had planned a meeting in the future in some larger place to hear constituents' views on a licensing of land-fill operations in the township.

Since the ordinance had not as yet been advertised, as is required by law before it can be acted upon by the board, the board had not anticipated a large attendance at Friday's regular meeting held in the home of the secretary, Arthur Weaver, Gettysburg R. 4.

Hearings Required

When J. C. Hammond, H. G. Armistead and other spokesmen for the petitioners explained that they and the other residents believed that the supervisors had already taken some action, the board explained that the proposed ordinance must be advertised and public hearings held. The supervisors explained that they could not take action legally Friday night because the ordinance had not as yet been written and started on its way to ultimate adoption or rejection.

They promised that if an ordinance pertaining to licensing of a sanitary land fill operation is prepared and advertised, the supervisors will hold the hearings at a site large enough to accommodate all interested township residents.

State Objections

Hammond and others said they appeared before the supervisors to protest the establishment of a sanitary land-fill because they understood negotiations were underway to place one on a farm owned by C. M. Wolf in the Granite area.

After the township residents had presented their views in opposition to a landfill in their area, the supervisors authorized the annual asking of bids for stone and tar with the bids to be opened at the February 27 meeting of the supervisors. The advertisement for bids for 5,000 gallons of tar and 2,000 tons of stone to be used in maintenance of the township roads during the year will be published next week.

CONVENTIONS BEING PLANNED THIS SUMMER

A number of conventions of various organizations are scheduled to be held in Gettysburg during the summer, according to requests for information received by the Travel Council.

According to a letter from Vincent Burke, New York, the sixth annual reunion of the 3408th Ordnance Co. will be held at Gettysburg June 5, 6 and 7 "thanks to your kind and valuable assistance," Burke wrote. He had previously written concerning information on the community.

The sessions of the 3408th Ordnance Company will be held at the Peace Light Inn, Burke said, in requesting 200 folders to be sent the members in his notice to them of plans to hold the session here.

The Travel Council this week also sent 400 folders and other information to the Eastern District American Lutheran Church which plans to hold its annual sessions June 15 to 19 on the Gettysburg College Campus.

Another convention scheduled to be held in Gettysburg is the 1959 encampment of the Pennsylvania Department of the United Spanish War Veterans, returning to Gettysburg this year after an absence of several years. George J. Didyoung, Reading, in announcing that the session will be held here June 7, 8, 9, and 10 made arrangements to meet with Travel Council representative and others in the community in February to work out final details for the meeting.

Daniel L. Wiest's Will Is Probated

The will of Daniel L. Wiest, late of Gettysburg, was entered for probate in the office of register and recorder today naming the Gettysburg National bank as trustee and executor of the $20,000 personal estate. No real estate value was given.

The deceased bequeathed $500 each to Fred J. and Mary C. Vial, and $1,000 to the bank to be held in trust.

The net income from the trust is to be paid annually to the pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, Gettysburg, for two monthly masses each for repose of the souls of his late parents, John and Alpheta Wiest, and for the upkeep of their graves in the church cemetery.

Mr. Wiest directed that all bequests be free of taxes to the individuals. They are to be paid from the residue of his estate. The executor is directed to convert the rest of the estate into cash at either private or public sale and distribute it equally to the children of his halfbrother, Albertus C. Wiest.

MRS. KEPNER BURIED

Funeral services were held from the Wilson Funeral Home, Fairfield, Friday afternoon for Mrs. Josephine Florence Kepner, 64, wife of John Kepner, who died at her home, Fairfield R. 1, Monday evening. The Rev. Claude H. Cord officiated and interment was in Fairfield Union Cemetery. The pallbearers were Frank Bettis, Paul Gladhill, Samuel Burman, Charles Bloom, Ralph Bloom and Woodrow Homar.

NEW SECRETARY

George W. Miller, manager of the Gettysburg Motor Club (AAA), announced that Miss Kitty L. Wenschhof will join the office force of the Motor Club effective February 1 as secretary to the manager. Miss Wenschhof has been secretary to one of the officials of the Victor Products Company for several years. Miss Wenschhof will take over the position held by her sister, Miss Faye R. Wenschhof, who on March 1 leaves the employment of the club to be married.

COUPLE LICENSED

Marriage licenses have been issued at Westminster to these couples: Jack R. Neiman and Virginia M. Slick, Abbottstown; Kenneth Eugene Werner, Littlestown, and Shirley Ann Wherley, Hanover; LeRoy John Kessler and Thelma Hazel Davis, Littlestown; Harry Behm, Brownsville, Pa., and Bessie M. Robert, New Oxford; George P. Slick, Taneytown, and Mildred E. Clingan, Littlestown.

Wedding

Sneeringer—Carbaugh

Miss Dolores H. Carbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Carbaugh, 610 Carlisle St., Hanover, became the bride of Donald C. Sneeringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Carroll Sneeringer, Hanover R. 4, this morning at 9 o'clock in a nuptial mass at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Hanover. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rodney Hemler.

The church was decorated with white pompons. Francis Carbaugh, the soloist, was accompanied at the organ by Miss Rose Kuhn. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long white gown of Chantilly lace, fashioned with a scoop neckline trimmed with tiny seed pearls with long tapered sleeves and a basque waist. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of tiny pearls and rhinestones.

Geneva Carbaugh, Hanover, was maid of honor. She was attired in a red velvet dress with scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and a basque waist with a bouffant skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and pompons with red streamers.

To Hold Reception

Miss Sally Sneeringer, Hanover, and Mrs. Diane Eisenhauer, Lebanon, served as bridesmaids. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor in dark green. They carried colonial bouquets of white roses and pompons with green streamers.

C. Gerard Sneeringer, Hanover, served as best man. The ushers were Warren E. Carbaugh and Philip Carbaugh, both of Hanover.

A reception will be held in the Conewago Fire Hall at 6 o'clock this evening after which the couple will leave for a honeymoon of one week through the south.

For her going away outfit the bride will wear a fuchsia sheer wool dress. Upon their return the couple will reside at Hanover R. 4.

The bride is a graduate of Delone Catholic High School and Misericordia College and is employed in the laboratory at the Hanover General Hospital.

The groom is a graduate of Delone Catholic High School and served two years with the U. S. Army. He is employed as a foreman at the Brooks Shoe Manufacturing Co.

World Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis, 78, president of the United Mine Workers, is in Georgetown University Hospital here for observation.

Dr. John Minor said Lewis had had a little trouble the past few days and there was some question as to whether it had been a heart attack.

Lewis suffered a minor heart attack in 1955.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Martin Co. says the latest flight of one of its Mace missiles has proved its all-weather capability.

The missile, which can carry a nuclear warhead, roared 650 miles through a snowstorm from Alamogordo, N.M., to Wendover Air Force Base, Utah. A spokesman for Martin said the TM76B stayed on course all the way and struck the target area.

The Mace will replace the Martin Matador at overseas bases within a few months.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"Could either of you guys spare two bits?" the ragged little man asked. They were the wrong guys to ask. The two policemen took him in.

At the police station they found four uncashed paychecks totaling $400 from an electric company. Bills totalling $8,389 were stashed about his person.

Booked on suspicion of soliciting alms, Frank Crawford, 50, peeled off a $100 bill and paid his bail.

ICKESBURG, Pa. (AP)—State police today questioned four children who were badly burned in a flash fire from an explosion of blasting powder in a farm home. The explosion Friday night blew out windows and caused other damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kleckner, Ickesburg R. 2.

Trooper Stanley Crammes of the Duncannon State Police said the children were alone and playing in a kitchen when the blast occurred.

MAYPORT, Fla. (AP)—For eight days George Harrington and Harley Crowell sat in a 10-foot rubber dinghy, thinking and fishing. They didn't catch any fish. They only floated helplessly in the open Atlantic.

"We are thankful to be here," the two said Friday night in an interview aboard the Netherlands aircraft carrier Karel Doorman. The Dutch ship, en route here for maneuvers with the U.S. Navy, found the shipwrecked pair east of Bermuda.

During the eight days adrift, Harrington and Crowell lived off a can of tuna fish and a small bottle of grape juice each day. "We had enough rations to last us about a month," Harrington said.

Doomed Man Loses Appeal

HAVANA (AP)—Former Army Capt. Pedro Morejon today awaited execution as a war criminal after his appeal was denied by Cuba's supreme revolutionary tribunal.

The tribunal rejected Morejon's appeal from a lower court death sentence on charges of assassination, homicide, robbery, incendiarism and damage.

A Havana radio station said it understood Morejon would face a firing squad today but this could not be officially confirmed.

The only recourse left to Morejon under the revolutionary penal code is a direct appeal to revolutionary leader Fidel Castro, now commander in chief of the nation's armed forces.

PARKED AUTO CRASH VICTIM SECOND TIME

Bernard Anthony, Abbottstown, will be looking for a new and safer parking place. For the second time in less than a year, the car belonging to the Abbottstown borough secretary has been the damaged, innocent bystander in a traffic mishap.

Friday at 5:05 p.m. his car was parked along Lincolnway West in Abbottstown when a 20-year-old Hagerstown youth, driving west, dozed at the wheel. His car crashed into the eastbound car of James Leib, Abbottstown, forcing it into the Anthony vehicle, John Bechtel, chief of police, reported.

The sleepy driver, Donald Hauver, was charged with reckless driving and pleaded guilty at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Norman Moul. Hauver was fined $10 and ordered to pay costs of $5.

Damage to the three cars was estimated as close to $200. Neither driver nor Miss Elizabeth Dann, of Lawrence, Kan., a passenger in the Hauver car, was injured.

Anthony's car was parked in the same location as it was in the earlier incident when a truck crashed into it, Bechtel said.

SAY SOVIETS LEAD IN SPACE RACE SO FAR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Directors of the nation's civilian space efforts said Friday the Soviet Lunik, or moonshot, was a success.

Three experts of the National Aeronautic and Space Agency testified the moon shot showed powerful thrust and a good system of guidance.

Dr. Homer Stewart, a NASA planner, said the same guidance system could direct an intercontinental ballistic missile more than 5,000 miles to a target with an error of less than 15 to 20 miles.

Questions by the Senate space and preparedness groups inquiring into military might indicated that the Soviets remain ahead in the race for outer space.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), chairman of both the space and preparedness group, recounted the series of spectacular Soviet successes with satellites and then said: "This committee wants to know where we now stand. When can the American people expect to catch up with the Russians?"

8 ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN FRIDAY BLAZE

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. (AP)—Fire which ripped through the Glen Ellyn Acres nursing home Friday took the lives of eight elderly patients and led to the death of a volunteer fireman.

Passersby, firemen and nursing home employees risked their lives to save 12 other patients, two of whom were injured seriously and hospitalized.

Scene of the tragedy was a Du Page County landmark built in 1904 and modeled after an Italian villa.

The dead ranged in age from 67 to 90. The charred bodies of several victims were found in smoldering beds. Some victims managed to get only a few feet from their beds before the flames engulfed them.

Has Heart Attack
Most of the dead were trapped when a portion of the roof collapsed.

Glen Ellyn's assistant fire chief, Donald Stoffregen, 58, suffered a heart attack shortly after arriving at the scene. He died a few moments later. Glen Ellyn, 35 miles west of Chicago, has a volunteer department.

Damage to the structure was estimated in excess of $50,000.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined, investigators said it may have started in a closet on the second floor of the two-story stuccoed building. Those who died were trapped on the second floor.

Fugitive Is Found In Empty House

HARRISBURG (AP) — One of two patients who escaped from the Harrisburg State Hospital for the Mentally Ill was in custody again today. The other was still sought by police.

Sgt. Lester Hines said Charles Brown, 25, was found hiding in an empty house near his home Friday. Police officers had acted on a tip from a nearby resident. Brown escaped Thursday night.

Meantime, a search continued for George B. Spears, 39, Harrisburg, who fled the institution on Wednesday.

Both men were committed from Dauphin County Court after trials on armed robbery charges.

"MY LITTLE PRAYER BOOK"

I have a little prayer book . . . to which I often turn . . . whenever I am weary and . . . my heart is prone to yearn . . . its worn and brittle pages hold . . . a wealth of priceless things . . . jewels of contentment . . . that give my trouble wings . . . so many times I've opened it . . . and silently I'd pray . . . somehow the little prayer book . . . would help me find a way . . . my mother gave this book to me . . . when I was just a child . . . and through it I have come to learn . . . that it pays to be mild . . . and so when I need faith and hope . . . I take it from its nook . . . I always find the answers in . . . my little prayer book.

Danish Ship

due to weather and darkness. No evidence of (Danish) motor vessel sighted. Trawler reported ice closing in from northwest, however, continuing search. Navy aircraft arrived at 4:30 and searching area.

Use Superconstellation

The Navy Superconstellation was sent 1,000 miles from Argentina, Nfld., to circle over the area and try to direct the search ships by radar.

The continuing search was being directed from the Royal Canadian Air Force search and rescue center in Halifax.

More ships were plowing toward the scene through the rough North Atlantic as U. S. and Canadian search planes took off in hope of getting through bad weather that had kept them grounded Friday.

The Campbell was coming from its North Atlantic navigational patrol station 30 miles to the southwest.

Storm Hampers Searchers

Nine small vessels set out from Greenland in a blizzard to try to help. The Greenland Navy command said three of them were forced by the storm to drop anchor.

Weather conditions were reported to be improving. But in the best of weather at this time of year, a person can survive in those frigid waters for "just over 60 seconds," the Coast Guard said.

The Hedtoft was en route from Godthaab, capital of the ice-capped Danish island of Greenland, to Copenhagen on the return leg of its maiden voyage. The Greenland Department in Copenhagen said she carried 55 passengers and 40 crew members but a radio message from the ship said 90 passengers and 40 crewmen were aboard.

In Service One Month

The department said all passengers were Danes or Greenlanders. The Hedtoft was built last year for the Danish government and put into service about a month ago bearing the name of a late premier of Denmark.

Many of the details — madden voyage, latest safety designs, hit an iceberg — were similar to the loss of the Titanic in 1912 with 1,517 lives. The 46,328-ton British ship sank about 1,300 miles south of the area where the Hedtoft collision occurred.

RUNS HALF MILE

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Herb Elliott, who usually runs the mile, ran the half mile today for the first time in four months. He was clocked in 1:51.6 in winning the Victorian half-mile title at Olympic Park track.

Tony Blue, a Queensland medical student, gave Elliott his hard-earned race in Australia in a year. Blue's time was 1:51.7.

Elliott's time was 2.3 seconds slower than his Australian record and 4.3 seconds slower than his best 880 in London last year.

7TH VICTIM

COCOAC BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An auto smashup on Ocean Beach Drive has claimed its seventh victim.

Patrick Costello died in an Orlando hospital Friday after surviving an accident Thursday that took the lives of five 18-year-old Orlando youths.

Kenneth Goepfer, who also survived the crash, died Thursday night.

Freshmen — Jane Groft, Marie Hagerman, Mary Hill, Darlyn Hufnagle, Genevieve Kreitz, William Poist, Loretta Schuchart, Janne Rinehart, Carol Sneeringer, Geary McAndrew, Rose Marie Murphy, Michael Yantis, Patricia Berkeheimer, Victoria Claubaugh, Janice Grawe, Carole Grim, Philip A. TO DEDICATE NEW CHURCH WING SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. George L. Melhorn, pastor of Moxham Lutheran Church, Johnstown, will deliver the sermon at services dedicating the fellowship hall and Sunday School wing of the new $650,000 building project of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Hanover, Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

The Liturgy will be read by Rev. Robert C. Schiebel, pastor of Fogelsville Parish, Orefield, near Reading, and the lesson will be presented by Rev. Donald W. Brown, supply pastor in the Altoona area.

The offering will be conducted by Carl E. Miller, first year student at the Lutheran Seminary, Gettysburg, and prayer will be offered by Rev. J. Harold Little, retired. All are sons of the congregation. The pastor, Rev. Edgar D. Ziegler, also will assist in the services.

An organ recital Wednesday at 8 p.m. will conclude the series of dedication services which opened January 18. The recital will be presented by Virgil Fox, former organist at St. Mark's and presently organist at Riverside Church, New York City.

Seminary Graduate
Dr. Melhorn, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Melhorn, Baltimore, Md., Hanover, was graduated from Gettysburg Seminary in 1938 and received his Doctor of Divinity degree in 1948.

Rev. Schiebel, a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Schiebel, Hanover R. 4, was graduated from Gettysburg Seminary in 1938 and served as pastor of Mt. Carmel Lutheran Church, Hanover, from 1950 to 1954.

Rev. Brown, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wellington M. Brown, Hanover and Abbottstown R. 1, also is a graduate of Gettysburg Seminary where Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Miller, 150 North George St., Hanover, is a first year student.

Rev. Miller, who was graduated from Gettysburg Seminary in 1924, served 13 years as pastor of New Chester Church, in the Hampton area, and was principal of East Berlin High School eight years.

submit plans, indicating their proposed remedies, to the state. Appeals will be allowed if time extensions are necessary.

Should such appeals be made, fast county board action may be necessary. Keffer said. The board authorized its officers to approve such appeals if they are presented between board meetings.

Keffer said that the local boards have several things to consider. Although he said he does not favor spending more than necessary on buildings which are to be discontinued as schools in the near future, the boards do have a responsibility to eliminate hazards. The buildings are not hazards. The buildings are not hazards.

Tyrone Problem

When the merged school district which voters in the Upper Adams districts approved last November becomes effective July 6, the portion of Tyrone Twp., about 15 percent in the New Chester area, will be without a school board. Keffer said. All of the present members of the Tyrone board reside in the merged portion of the township. The unmerged or "lower end" of the township is a part of the Lower Adams Joint School System.

Keffer said the court can appoint a board when vacancies exist, but this status will not occur until July 6. Meanwhile it will be necessary for a budget to be prepared and a tax rate fixed. It may be necessary for the present board to handle this business, he said.

Until the merger becomes effective the present board members constitute the board with authority in the entire township. As such they are members of the Lower Adams Joint Board as well as of the Upper Adams board.

Legal Angles

Keffer suggested that the county board should seek advice of its legal counsel to determine what action, if any, it must take in the Tyrone situation.

Further discussion on the institute arrangements will take place with other counties, Keffer said. Although first talks were with York, the growth in that county is such that finding meeting places adequate to accommodate all of the teachers may soon be a problem, the superintendent added.

Joining with Cumberland and possibly one or two other counties looks more favorable, he said. He said that several advantages would result from such joint arrangement. Groups in specialized fields would be larger and this would be more encouraging to prospective expert consultants. If Franklin is scheduled, there would be four colleges within the area, he said, and these are a source of useful help in conducting an institute. Keffer said that he plans to explore the matter further with J. Paul Burkhardt, Cumberland County superintendent of schools.

Printing of the county school directory was reported in progress and the books are expected to be ready for distribution in two or three weeks.

GLEE CLUB TO

Kleindienst. Kleindienst will sing Romberg's "Desert Song" from the Desert Song and "Golden Days" from "The Student Prince." Other Romberg selections will include "French Marching Song" and "One Alone" from "The Desert Song." News From Nearby Counties

FRANKLIN COUNTY
Bites and scratches from a cat sent 28-year-old Richard Hale, Chambersburg to the Chambersburg Hospital where he received treatment for wounds of the left hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mellott and their infant daughter fled to safety Thursday morning when fire destroyed the small furnished cottage the occupied at Cove Gap, west of Mercersburg.

Mercersburg firemen said the cottage was one of a group owned by D. W. Snyder and located at the rear of Snyder's home and business establishments in Cove Gap.

YORK COUNTY

A clerk has been placed in charge of a window in the lobby of the York Post Office to provide services exclusively for collectors and buyers of commemorative stamps.

Weekend sightseers were warned to avoid the Long Level flood disaster area and one-way traffic was decreed for the state highway which traverses it.

County Superintendent John Kineman, of the Department of Highways, said all roads north and west will be barricaded and only northbound traffic will be permitted to enter from the Craley Road.

He also said that parking will be prohibited everywhere along the road, with state and fire police from neighboring towns on hand to see that the temporary traffic regulations are strictly enforced.

Bulldozers and other heavy equipment under contract to the department have cleared the road of the huge ice blocks which did most of the damage so that two lanes of traffic are possible at most places, but he said, utility crews will be working on the area throughout the weekend restoring service and many of the families victimized will be using the time trying to restore order to their dwellings.

He did not discount the possibility, though remote at present, of further trouble which could be tragic for sight-seeing traffic snarled in the area.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Revenue Department reminded Pennsylvania motorists they will need new drivers' licenses after midnight tonight.

The Department said Friday that it issued 4,700,000 drivers' licenses for 1959. The agency's motor vehicle office in Harrisburg stayed open to handle last-minute applications.

Today's Talk

BELIEVE IN GOD

I have never found it difficult to believe in God. He is manifest in all directions. Nature applauds Him. The tiniest flower looks up into His face. He breathes upon the entire Earth. It is His garden. Love is embodied in all His creations. His foot-prints are to be seen in the sunlight. The bird-calls are a doxology of glory to His name. How can we disregard the evidence of His existence?

God is always around. That is why we can put our trust in Him and always feel safe. He can blot out all fears and anxieties. He can warm the heart and bring peace to the soul. He can administer unto us in all times of peril. He abides in every life that surrenders to His will, and then one walks with Him and talks with Him. Only believe!

God makes it possible to ride out any storm and dismiss every worry.

Why can't we all believe in Him? "Let not your heart be troubled." Believe in God and God will believe in you! The miracle of faith has been demonstrated time and again. David, the Psalmist, wrote: "Thy rod and thy staff, they comfort me." They can both do the same for any of us.

The greatest of this earth have believed in God, and have worshipped Him in their daily lives, obediently and sincerely. The great Daniel Webster exclaimed: "I believe, help Thou my unbelief." Washington, Lincoln, Fabre, Pasteur, and a host of others believed in God. To whom else can we attribute this wonderful earth and the starry path in the heavens at night?

I am still filled with wonder as I enter each new day, with all about me a world of wonders. With the heavens at night saturated with stars, as the Milky Way is, who can explain it all? Why should there be so many stars, and what is the function of each? A superior intelligence had to plan it all.

Just Folks

IF
If smooth were the paths
That we journey along,
And bright were the skies
And the air sweet with song,
If never a cloud
Hid the light of the sun,
Then winning a battle
Would not be much fun.

If love were but wooing
And winning a maid,
And no one of losing
Were ever afraid,
If frowns never hurt us
And quarrels never came,
Then loving would really
Be dreary and tame.

If life were all getting
And keeping for aye,
If there were no losses
To meet on the way,
No sadness to blend
With the gladness we know,
We'd hunger for something
Our courage to show.

THREE PERISH
IN HOME FIRE

OAKLYN, N. J. (AP) — Two children and their father burned to death Friday in a fire that destroyed their home.

The mother was burned and cut severely and two sons escaped with the aid of a neighbor.

The three-story frame home occupied by the family of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Yaroch was a mass of flames when firemen arrived. A fire chief and one of his men were overcome by smoke in their vain attempt at a rescue.

The body of Yaroch, 35, was found in a bathroom of the home. The bodies of his daughter, Cheryl, 3, and his son Michael, 1, were found in a bedroom they occupied. The mother, Ruth, 35, smashed a back bedroom window, cutting herself, climbed onto a sloping kitchen roof under the bedroom and leaped. The two older sons, Stephen, 8, and Christopher, 6, followed her onto the roof but apparently were afraid to jump.

A neighbor, Attilio Carlucci, moved a lawn chair to the back porch and was able to reach the boys and help them to the ground.

George Insip, supervising principal, presided at the organization meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Fairfield joint high school Friday evening in the Fairfield community fire company hall.

The nominating committee composed of Rev. A. W. Geigley, Robert Reindollar and Joseph Lowe made the following nominations: President, Roger Myers; vice president, Robert Reindollar; secretary, Mrs. M. Stearns; treasurer, Mrs. Harold Brown. The nominees were voted into office.

A Bit Of History About
Your Own Adams County

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

THE GETTYS FAMILY

On Tuesday, November 21, 1865, the following item appeared in the "Star and Sentinel":—

"Another Monument — Mr. James Gettys (second of the name), formerly of this place, but for many years a resident of the State of Tennessee, has been here (Gettysburg, Pennsylvania) during the greater part of the summer months superintending the removal of the remains of his relatives from the old burial ground to the Evergreen Cemetery, and the erection of a monument in memory of the same. This work is now accomplished and a beautiful and costly monument marks the spot where they will now be undisturbed to the end of time. The lot selected by Mr. Gettys is located near the Cemetery entrance, and along the Principal Avenue. The shaft of the monument is seventeen feet high, surrounded with a beautiful draped urn. It bears the following inscription:

'General James Gettys
Proprietor of the Town of Gettysburg.
Born August 14, 1759
Died March 13, 1815.
Mary Gettys
Born July 15, 1767
Died March 15, 1815.'

"Above the inscription, and about halfway up the shaft, is carved the face and head of General Gettys. The features are brought out very distinctly, and it is said to be a correct likeness."

Question Burial Places

Was James Gettys and his wife, Mary Todd, first interred in the burial ground of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church, now more commonly known as "Black's Graveyard," or were their original graves located in the Presbyterian burial ground, located on North Washington Street, in Gettysburg? According to the records the Presbyterian congregation of Upper Marsh Creek they purchased in 1815, "some eighteen months" after they gave up their old church edifice in Cumberland Township, this county, the lot on which their first church "in town" was later erected. Here also they maintained a sizable burial ground.

If the dates given are accurate, and there is no reason to doubt them, General Gettys and other members of his family were very possibly first buried in the Gettysburg Presbyterian Graveyard. This cemetery was finally "given up" and the last bodies moved out in 1865 — the same year James Gettys II exhumed from "the old burial ground" the bodies of his father and mother, as well as other members of the Gettys family, and re-interred them in the Evergreen Cemetery.

Unmarked Grave

In addition Black's Graveyard would probably have been referred to by name, for it was still in use in 1865 and for some years thereafter.

This may be mere coincidence — but everyone is entitled to his or her opinion — until documentary proof finally decides the issue.

The Gettys family were members of the Presbyterian Church and Samuel Gettys, the father of the founder of Gettysburg, is probably buried in the old "Black's Graveyard" in an unmarked grave. The family was Scotch, or Scotch-Irish, in origin and an old record, on file in the Division of Public Records, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, states that "James Gettys lived in Donegal" and "Stephen Gettys lived in Donegal in 1775." Apparently the Gettys family was one of the few contributed to Marsh Creek Settlement, in what is now Adams County, Pennsylvania, by Donegal, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Samuel Gettys, father of the founder, made the move from Lancaster to York (now Adams) County.

After he became a resident on the "frontier" Samuel Gettys acquired quite a bit of land — as a matter of fact he became "land poor." At the time of his death the lands of Samuel Gettys were divided and sold as follows:

Acquires Land
1. First tract sold to James Gettys, "son of the deceased," for seven hundred and ninety pounds sterling.
2. Second and third tracts sold to Henry Weaver for eight hundred pounds sterling.
3. Fourth tract sold to James Gettys, "son of the deceased," for one hundred and fifty-five pounds sterling.

Now the Collinses are waiting to see what happens.

Rooster, Pigeon

Hatching Brood

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collins built some nests in their barn loft for pigeons and looked forward to the day when they would have squab for their dinner table.

Then they found a rooster from their flock of chickens missing. After five days they found him, 12 feet up, billing and cooing with one of the pigeons in a nest full of eggs.

Now the Collinses are waiting to see what happens.

4. Fifth tract sold to James Gettys, "son of the deceased," for nineteen pounds and ten shillings.

The land referred to as the "First Tract" was the farm or plantation on which the town of Gettysburg was laid out. This statement is based on records on file in the State Land Office.

In a number of issues of the old "Adams Sentinel" for the year 1803, the following political advertisement can be found:

"To the Free Electors of Adams County Gentlemen:—

"At the request of a number of my Fellow-Citizens, I offer myself to your consideration for the Sheriff's Office at the ensuing Election. Should I be so fortunate as to obtain your suffrages for so important a trust, I should feel myself in duty bound to discharge it with candor and fidelity.

"I am, gentlemen, with the greatest sincerity,

"Your obedient,
Humble servant
James Gettys."

Deaths In Family

Again referring to the files of the "Adams Sentinel" (later to be known as the "Star and Sentinel") the following items pertaining to the Gettys family can be found under the dates given:

1. Wednesday, March 15, 1815 — (two items).

"Died, Sunday, March 12, 1815, in this Borough, Mrs. Isabella Gettys, in the 84th year of her age — mother of General James Gettys."

Note: The wife of Samuel Gettys and the mother of General James Gettys, founder of the town of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

2. "Died, Monday evening, March 13, 1815, General James Gettys, proprietor of this town, in the 56th year of his age. Mr. Gettys had been in a healthy habit previous to the present attack of fever, which was on Sunday evening, March 5, 1815, shortly after his return from Church. As a husband and a father, Mr. Gettys was peculiarly affectionate and indulgent, as a friend he was sincere, and a companion polite, social, and cheerful."

Soldier Of Revolution

Note: James Gettys was the son of Samuel and Isabella Gettys and the "proprietor of the town of Gettysburg." He was a soldier of the American Revolution as well as the War of 1812-14. His grave is located in the Evergreen Cemetery, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

3. Wednesday, March 22, 1815 — "Died, Friday, March 15, 1815, in this Borough, in the 48th year of her age, Mrs. Mary Gettys, relict of General James Gettys, who deceased the Monday preceding."

Note: Mary Todd, "of Kentucky," who was married to General James Gettys, son of Samuel and Isabella Gettys. Mrs. Gettys is buried with her husband and several of her children in the Evergreen Cemetery. According to a family reliable source Mary (Todd) Gettys, her husband, James Gettys, and her mother-in-law, Isabella Gettys, all died of typhoid fever.

4. Wednesday, May 23, 1821 — Son Is Married

Set New Date For Rossellini's Suit

ROME (AP)—A Rome court postponed Friday hearing in Roberto Rossellini's suit for custody of the three children born of his now broken union with Swedish film star Ingrid Bergman. The court set April 17 as the new date.

The actress is living with the children and her new husband, Lars Schmidt, a Swedish businessman, on a farm outside Paris. Last week a French court, in a provisional ruling, granted custody of the children to Miss Bergman and visiting rights to Rossellini. The Paris court ruling decreed the children—Robertino, 8, and twin girls, Ingrid and Isabella, 6 — must attend an Italian school in Paris.

SAYS WEST IS MISSING CUE IN
PROPAGANDABy WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Nikita S. Khrushchev is doing a job of Western propaganda that the west seems unable to do for itself.

Khrushchev's statements to the 21st Soviet Communist Congress sow fear among leaders of countries he has been hoping to impress. His protests about the purity of Soviet intentions toward the sovereignties of others will get a skeptical reception.

Khrushchev solemnly told the Soviet Communist Congress that the U.S.S.R. "never interferes and has no intention of interfering in the domestic affairs of other countries." Only a few sentences beyond that, he openly scolded Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Nasser was "wrong" to take action against the Communists in Syria and Egypt.

Strange Sound

Such Khrushchev protestations of innocence must have sounded strange, too, to the Soviet Union's Finnish neighbors. Only a short time ago Moscow seriously menaced Finland's economy by halting Soviet-Finnish trade because Finland had installed a conservative government. Relations didn't improve until Finland got a government that promised to get along with Moscow.

Soviet and Chinese Communists are causing concern in Asia, particularly in Indonesia where President Sukarno seems to be backing away cautiously from the bear's embrace.

Whenever the Communists have an opportunity to throw charges of interference and imperialism at the United States, there is a great propaganda hue and cry. Moscow makes the most of such situations. But when the shoe is on the other foot, Western propaganda seems to take little advantage of it.

OPPOSES BARE
BOSOM SHOWS

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A Nevada legislator wants a law passed banning night club shows that include bare chested girls.

His demand created a debate almost immediately, especially in Las Vegas, the night club and gambling center.

Democratic State Sen. Floyd Lamb introduced a measure in the Legislature Thursday which would make bare bosom shows illegal. In Las Vegas, Belden Kattelman of El Rancho Vegas stoutly defended his show.

"Perhaps it is time to differentiate between an artistic performance and mere burlesque," Kattelman said. "The current production at El Rancho Vegas is a Parisian revue I brought over intact from Paris."

Opinions Differ
"La Nouvelle Eve enjoys a distinguished reputation all over the world for the excellence and taste of its presentation. The girls are all young, fresh and beautiful and come from some of the finest families in France."

But Marion Hicks of The Thunderbird, who has tried such shows, said he was "100 per cent for eliminating such shows completely."

"Our girls," he added, "haven't been bare chested for three weeks. All we've done (in Las Vegas) is attract a cheaper class of business with nude shows."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ninety-one-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R) Friday submitted his resignation as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He gave failing eyesight and hearing as his reason.

Let's Look At The Record

WAR CENTENNIAL

Stuart And Sheridan Will Ride Again;
States Creating Centennial CommissionsBy JIM DAN HILL, PH.D.
President, Wisconsin State College
Superior

GEN. NATHAN B. FORREST soon will ride again. The gray ghosts, Jeb Stuart and his cavaliers, will again guard the crossings of the Rappahannock. U. S. Grant and Robert E. Lee are marshalling their host of modern readers who will vicariously share in the dangers and hardships of every campaign.

America is approaching the biggest war of battlefield words in the history of the Republic. All this is because we now stand on the threshold of the Centennial of the American Civil War.

THROUGHOUT most of Dixie, they call it "The War Between the States." But in Vermont they do not know what you are talking about unless you refer to it as "The Great Rebellion."

But if you want to be invited to a Southern dinner in Virginia or Mississippi, you should remove your hat and with bowed head refer to this war as "The Lost Cause."

THE AMERICAN Civil War is thus all things to all Americans. That is why it has become the most inexhaustible theme in North American fiction, poetry and history.

Some will try to make this Centennial a centennial to end all centennials. It will end nothing. It will merely add to and make the Civil War an even greater story than it ever was.

Already a stream of books, primed for the years of 1961-65, are filling the shelves. They are merely the advance trickle of the flood to come.

EIGHTEEN STATES

have created commissions for proper observance of the Civil War Centennial. They are Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, and Wisconsin. There is also a National Commission for the Centennial.

Alaska seems to be the only one of the 49 states that is unaware of the local autonomy it might have had were it not for Appomattox.

REVIVED INTEREST in the Civil War has already resulted in much activity other than books.

Marylanders are belatedly seeking to save storied Antietam's battlefield from commercial and sub-divisions.

The National Park Service is removing fills of past storms, debris from deterioration and reveal most of old Fort Sumter as it was when Major Anderson elected a shooting fight he knew he could not win rather than renounce a call of duty.

IN VIRGINIA a Stonewall Jackson Memorial Association is not only marking and parking two or more of his famous battlefields, but they also propose college scholarships in his memory. It will thus be recalled that the inscrutable gray commander was actually a college professor between the Mexican and Civil Wars.

MARKINGS at forgotten battlefields and along abandoned routes of march will claim much of the centennial effort.

There is hardly a county between Harrisburg, Pa., and Key West, Fla., that does not contain a site that merits a marker. The same is true of the vast region from the Ohio River to the Gulf, and from the Canadian boundary to the coast of Texas.

Nowhere have Civil War battle-sites, events and routes of march been more neglected than in states west of the Mississippi. There it was a three cornered fight that included the Red as well as the Blue and the Gray. The Indians fought everybody.

Thus much happened west of the Mississippi that has never been in the school books, such as Confederate volunteers fighting Indians to protect the Minnesota and Wisconsin frontiers.

WITH VICKSBURG battlefield long marked, parked and memorialized Mississippi is more alert to local history than most states. Nevertheless, its local historians figure there were nearly 800 battles and skirmishes that need to be catalogued and located.

The same picture prevails in Tennessee. But the extensive gunboat operations on that state's two great rivers, in addition to such actions as the steamboat, naval battle at Memphis offer special problems in markings and model restorations.

By and large, 1961-65 will be one long field day for the local historians and the arm chair tacticians.

TRAPPED MEN RESCUED FROM HIGH CHIMNEY

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — "I was mighty damned proud, I'll bet I've broken out that gun 150 times, but never used it. This one time I did, and it was worth it."

So spoke Navy Boatswain's Mate M. J. Bideaux, 33, who Thursday fired a lifeline to two men trapped more than two hours atop a 195-foot chimney they were wrecking. They were stranded when their scaffold slipped.

Two other men in the crew reached safety under their own power.

The line fired by Bideaux was used to hoist a bosun's chair on which Jose Valencia and George Hill were lowered inside the flue to safety.

Had Chew Of Tobacco

The 41-year-old Valencia, of Douglas, Ariz., said, "This has never happened to me before. But it's nothing to worry about."

His chew of tobacco was a problem for Hill, 40, of Atlasburg, Pa. He was tired of chewing, but couldn't dispose of it "because so many people were around the base of the chimney."

Valencia and Hill planned to be back on the job as did their partners, James O'Brien, 46, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Raymond Patterson, 40, of Elizabeth, Pa.

Valencia and Hill were sitting astride the wall of the steel-reinforced concrete stack when the scaffold slipped. O'Brien and Patterson stayed on it until it stopped 70 feet down the side of the tapered chimney. They grabbed a line and slid the rest of the way down.

Tractor Major Killer In The Farm Mishaps; Silage Is Good Feed For Bred Pigs

By FRANK S. ZETTL
Adams County Farm Agent

Records show more than 1,000 fatalities in the U. S. each year are caused by tractor accidents. Many of these can be avoided by just being careful and taking your time. Remember these when operating tractors and other farm machinery: A child's safety is a parent's responsibility. Teach children the importance of safety and point out dangers involved in the use of machinery. Emphasize that operating a tractor is a job for a mature person.

The tractor is the number one farm killer. Tractors are involved in 35 per cent of all farm accidents. Forty per cent of all tractor accidents are fatal to the operator.

Risk Of Upset
Chances of an upset increase four times when speed is doubled. If possible lock brake pedals together when driving on the open highway. Use brakes cautiously and keep them evenly adjusted. Throttle down before making turns.

A tractor has only one seat so do not carry extra riders on either the tractor or trailer implements. Avoid climbing steep banks with the tractor since overturns are one of the chief causes of tractor accidents. Be careful where you work. Often ditches, rocks and stumps are hidden by tall grass or brush and the tractor may overturn with little warning.

Tax Break
Several changes in the federal income tax law favor the farmer this year. They involve changes in the regulations on depreciation, farm operating losses, small corporations, estate taxes payment, condemnation-property replacement, and earned income of retired farmers.

Depreciation: Farmers now can "charge off" 20 per cent of the value of a capital asset purchased the first year, plus the regular depreciation on the remaining value (except for real estate items, such as land and buildings). Internal Revenue Bureau agents or tax specialists can illustrate the proper way of figuring this charge-off.

Net farm operating losses: These may now be carried back three years against past profits instead of the most recent two years in getting tax refunds. Small corporation taxes: For one thing taxes are levied now only on dividends of small corporations rather than their earnings.

Estate taxes: May now be spread over a period of up to 10 years with four per cent interest on the unpaid balance.

Condemnation Proceeds: Proceeds from sale of condemned property now may be used to purchase property of like kind, i.e., real estate for real estate to avoid capital gains taxes. Previously it had to be sold and purchased similar in use and purpose such as farm land for farm land, etc.

Retirement: Retired farmers more than 65 years old must count as earned income 30 per cent of the rental income received from a farm in which they participate materially in the management.

Further details are found in the Farmer's Tax Guide, available from the Extension Office.

Feed Pigs Silage
Many of Pennsylvania's swine producers could reduce feed costs to brood sows and bred gilts by feeding silage. Although, silage has generally been considered as a feed for ruminating animals, recent results at several experiment stations indicate that good quality corn or legume silage, properly supplemented, may make up the major part of the gestation rations for gilts and sows.

Sows and gilts will usually eat from seven to eight pounds of silage a day. If corn silage is supplemented with 1½ pounds of

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. (AP)—The front of the florist's shop now was bright and verdant with begonias, gloxinias, African violets, plus a wide assortment of foliage plants whose varying shades of green leaves were rich, healthy and shiny. The soil in which they grew was dark, of a crumbly texture and moist to the touch.

"Why," asked a customer who was admiring them, "do these plants do so beautifully here — and then, when I get them home, curl up and die in a little while?" The fault lies with the customer, who just isn't taking enough time and trouble with her houseplants. They are a joy and do much to make a house a home, but they do require attention and understanding. It's not enough to stick them in a sunny window, give them an occasional watering and an even more occasional feeding.

Days Getting Longer
Right now we're moving into spring. Days are getting longer, the sun is getting brighter. Many houseplants, natives of tropic climates, are moving into their normal cycle of bloom.

And if your houseplants aren't doing well, hurry to find out why — and remedy the situation on an emergency basis.

First take a look at the location of the plants. Except for foliage plants like philodendron and ivy which do well in northern locations and out of direct sunlight, most house plants flourish in southern and eastern exposures. Your sunniest windows are best for most.

Check Temperatures
Now, check house temperatures. They do their best growing where the daytime temperatures range between 65 and 70 degrees and are around 55 at night. Fortunately, the 65 to 70 degrees is usually achieved when plants are growing close to a window, where it is usually cooler than in the middle of the room. When nights are particularly frigid, protect them with a blanket of newspaper placed against the window pane. And, although fresh air is important, keep them out of drafts when airing a room.

Water, perhaps, is the greatest problem in successful house-plant growing. The plants should be kept moist, never permitted to become waterlogged. They should be watered thoroughly when the soil feels dry to the touch — with tepid water. And with soft water, if possible — rain water or clean melted snow are fine.

Humidity Is Important
Humidity, of course, is important and most of our centrally heated homes are much too dry. Humidity may be created by setting the plants on a tray containing a layer of gravel or pebbles into which water is poured — but never so much that the plants are standing in water. Once every couple of weeks, the plants should be given a thorough bath, at the protein supplement, and 1 to 1½ pounds of grain per day it makes a very satisfactory ration. Legume silage needs to be supplemented with slightly more grain to provide energy for growth and body maintenance. Usually if legume silage is supplemented with one pound of protein supplement and 1½ to 2 pounds of grain per day, it provides an adequate ration.

The advantages of feeding silage to breeding pigs are in savings in feed cost, and in keeping the sows from becoming overfat and clumsy during farrowing and lactation.

kitchen sink. Use tepid water and a spray, and make sure the undersides of the leaves are treated as well as the top.

Finally, there's the soil. It should be light, retentive of water and adequately rich. Plant food should be added at intervals, as needed — perhaps once a month — and the plant should be repotted when the roots have formed a thick mass on the outside of the potting soil. Knock the plant out of the pot to take a look. If repotting is necessary, replace with a pot one size larger than the old one. And then prune back the top of the plant to compensate for the disturbance to the root system.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — My grandmother's most important household aids, she always insisted, were epsom salts, a tack hammer and a knife sharpening steel. With the aid of one or the other, all problems from strained ankles (epsom salts soak) to reluctant pieces of machinery (sharp rap with tack hammer) could be solved.

She was a city woman, born and bred, whom I suspect believed flowers grew wrapped in tissue paper and long cardboard containers. Her sole excursion into plant growing was a six foot rubber plant which stood in a huge tub in the sun porch where it received a pail of water whenever anyone thought of it, was never fed, never repotted and thrived over the years. She also had a centerpiece for the dining room table — philodendron, usually — and when it succumbed, as it soon did, she just took the container to the florist and had another philodendron set in.

This ancestor also stocks the same old household aids — plus masking tape in the big economy size roll — and uses one or another for most emergencies. And for outdoor situations, I've added two other standbys: bonemeal and peat moss.

Variety Plenty
Nowadays, there are on the market many new chemical fertilizers — quick or slow acting, or a combination of both acid fertilizers, alkaline fertilizers, high nitrogen fertilizers, high phosphorus fertilizers, high potash and other custom-tailored mixtures for special situations and needs. And phosphorus-heavy bonemeal is being scorned by some experts, a few of whom say flatly that it is worthless but at least can do no actual damage.

As the scientists learn more about plant needs and plant foods, the list of known essentials in plant diet becomes larger. Most important to growing things are nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. These, in alphabetical order, are the ingredients listed numerically on bags of fertilizer, like 5-10-5, 6-12-8. In addition, however, plants require other water soluble chemicals, called trace minerals.

Tastes Vary
Different plants, like different people, have different tastes in foods. Some require larger quantities of nitrogen. Others grow better on a high potash diet. The best way — the only sensible way — to learn what a plant needs in the way of food is to study up on the plant itself. And the only way to learn if your ground is in need of fertilizer is to make a soil test or have one made. Deficiencies of the three important chemical elements can be ascer-

QUESTION: Our house is over 50 years old. Lately I have been doing some remodeling, which has included replacing some of the old moldings. I have been able to get duplicates of the moldings at a lumber yard — with two exceptions. I was under the impression that moldings were standardized.

ANSWER: At the time your house was built, each manufacturer of moldings had his own patterns and turned out individual moldings. About 30 years ago, the manufacturers got together and decided to do something about standardizing the moldings so that replacements would be easier. Since then, moldings of set designs are turned out by all the manufacturers. A few still make their own individual line of moldings, but they also carry all the standardized types. Any place which does millwork can make special moldings to match the old ones you have been unable to duplicate.

QUESTION: Getting ready to install a private water well system. How can I find out how deep the underground frost line extends in our area?

ANSWER: If any of your neighbors has a water well, he should be able to tell you. If not, local building authorities should know. And if you still cannot come up with the information, you definitely can get it from the state geological department.

QUESTION: I have never been able to tell the difference between common nails and box nails. They look the same to me. How can I tell which is which and what to use?

ANSWER: Common nails and box nails are almost identical in appearance. The one difference is that common nails are heavier in weight and larger in diameter. Both are used for general construction work; the common nails for heavy-duty jobs, the box nails for light-duty.

QUESTION: I have done a lot of work on my band saw and just recently began using it on metal. Every time I cut sheet metal, burrs are left on the underside of it. I have tried different kinds of blades, thinking that was the trouble, but it hasn't helped. Can you tell me what I am doing wrong?

ANSWER: All sheet metal, especially when it is very thin, has a tendency to burr on the underside when cut with a band saw. Try placing a piece of wood under the metal and cutting through tained easily by the homeowner with the aid of a small relatively inexpensive soil-testing kit.

One of the reasons we must feed our soil is that we cultivate it carefully, sweeping up leaves, grass clippings and light debris so that they never have a chance to work down into nutritive humus as it does in untended woods and forest areas.

Some of us buy fertilizer in quantity and feed our lawns and garden beds on a regular schedule — but most of us feed our plants when we think of it or it is convenient. Few of us hand tailor our plant food to the plant needs, and thus we waste a lot of money.

the wood and the metal at the same time. Also, start the cut slowly with light pressure, gradually increasing the pressure until you feel the blade going through the metal uniformly.

QUESTION: I have just had galvanized steel gutters installed on my home. Is it true that I must let them weather for 6 months before painting or wash them with acid if I decide to paint earlier?

ANSWER: If you let them weather for six months (some authorities say three months are sufficient), no preparation of the surface beyond the removal of dirt is necessary before painting. If you want to paint them immediately, the correct primer — according to the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association — is metallic zinc paint, also known as zinc dust-zinc oxide paint. This primer may be left on as the finish coat if you have no objection to the battleship gray color. Otherwise, finish with the desired color of any good exterior paint.

QUESTION: A couple of years ago a small section of the molding of a gilded portrait frame was broken off accidentally. We put the broken part aside, but could not find it when I went to look for it recently. I have tried to re-match the molding without success. One lumber dealer told me it is not standard molding and probably was made to order. What do you suggest?

ANSWER: It is sometimes possible to do a reasonably good job of replacing a small piece of molding with wood putty or plastic wood. Fill in the damaged area with the wood material. Use your fingers or any helpful small tool to shape the filler to conform with the original design. Be sure to do all this before the putty or plastic wood sets too much. You might try it out first with a piece of scrap wood in order to get the knack of it before you work on the frame.

QUESTION: I will be doing some calcimine shortly. A friend tells me to be sure not to mix the calcimine in a wooden bucket, but he doesn't know the reason. Is this true?

ANSWER: Your friend is right. Calcimine is made principally of whiting and glue. When it is mixed in a wooden container, part of the glue is absorbed by the wood. This leaves a white substance with very little binder and consequently will not adhere properly.

QUESTION: A couple of weeks ago, a key broke off in the lock of one of the interior doors in our house. We've had no success in dislodging it from the lock, no matter which method we've tried. It's one of those locks that is mortised right into the edge of the door, so we've avoided trying to get it out. What is your advice?

ANSWER: You'll just have to do what you don't want to do:

DAIRYMEN AND POULTRYMEN HIT BY PRICES

HARRISBURG — Both poultrymen and dairymen experienced a price-cost squeeze during December, the State Department of Agriculture said this week.

However, high production per bird and cow is noted in a report by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Milk production in Pennsylvania for 1958 is estimated at a record high of 6,675 million pounds, three per cent above the 1957 record of 6,462 million pounds. December's milk production at 525 million pounds was the only month during 1958 in which monthly production was not a record level.

The number of milk cows on farms continued to decline during December as high prices for slaughter cows and high production expenses encouraged farmers to cull more heavily.

State Statistics
In spite of the exceptionally cold month of December, hens averaged 16.99 eggs per month, up slightly from December, 1957. The number of layers on hand was down about three per cent from December a year ago. Total December production was 310 billion eggs, up six per cent from November, but down two per cent from the same month in 1957. Total egg production in 1958 at 3,579 million eggs was down slightly from the 3,586 million eggs produced in 1957. Egg prices show a greater decline than poultry feed prices, the report says. The dairymen's milk price-feed relationship in December also became less favorable. Prices received for milk were down and the value of rations fed increased slightly. Averaged milk production per cow in Pennsylvania during December was 564 pounds, a record high.

QUESTION: I do a lot of work with model airplanes and find it very difficult at times to do sanding in a tiny area that can not be reached with even a very small sander. A friend of mine advised me to wrap a piece of sandpaper around a toothpick for this kind of work, but I find it a clumsy method. What do you suggest?

ANSWER: I'm not quite sure I understand this. Don't you sand the parts before you put the model planes together? But anyway, if you want to use a toothpick for sanding purposes, use abrasive powder rather than sandpaper. Coat the toothpick with the same kind of quick-drying cement you use for making the models and then roll the toothpick in the abrasive powder. You can, if desired, make your own abrasive powder by scraping the grit from a piece of sandpaper.

Constable Fined For Slugging Man

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Bristol borough Constable Robert J. Coles has been fined $100 for slugging insurance salesman Richard R. Bruchman of Levittown. Quarter Sessions Judge I. Louis Rubin imposed the fine Thursday after a Bucks County court jury found Coles guilty of assault and battery. Bruchman, 40, said Coles struck him with a blackjack last Dec. 4, after coming to Bruchman's home to conduct a sheriff's sale.

Coles admitted striking Bruchman, but said it was in self-defense. He also was ordered to pay $80 in court costs.

EMMITSBURG — "Your Share In Tomorrow," a movie on Wall Street, was shown by B. A. Compass of Alex Brown and Son, banking firm of Frederick, at the meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club Monday evening in the Lutheran parish house. After the movie, Compass spoke briefly on stock and bonds. Twenty members were present. President Charles Stouter conducted the meeting. Compass, his son, Dwight, and the Rev. Philip Bower were guests.

One new member, William A. Carr, was accepted into the organization. The next meeting will be held February 9 at Fitzgerald's Mason-Dixon Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kerrigan, Philadelphia, visited in town Wednesday and attended the funeral of Mrs. Charlotte Frazer in St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Miss Linda Humerick, Towson State Teachers' College, is spending the mid-term vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Humerick, and family, W. Main St.

Mrs. Ruth M. Myers, Tract Rd., visited Sunday with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Keith W. Roper, Baltimore. While there she attended the baptism of the infant son of the Ropers' in St. Bernard Catholic Church. The infant received the name Craig Michael and the godparents were Mr. and Mrs. John Moran, Baltimore. The Rev. Fr. Michael J. O'Brien, C.M., former assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church here, officiated.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force has conducted a highly successful static engine test with the powerful Titan ICBM, paving the way for a launching in the near future. The 90-foot war rocket, the newest and potentially the mightiest weapon in the U.S. arsenal, blasted out fire and smoke during the static Thursday.

Success came after three apparent failures to fire the missile on the ground during the month.

POPE'S MOVE IS AIMED AT EAST CHURCH

By TOM HENSHAW

AP Religion Writer

Pope John III's plan to summon an ecumenical council to explore the possibilities of Christian unity appears to have been directed primarily at the Eastern Orthodox Churches.

And, although the fastest show of interest came from Western Protestant leaders, it seems that any form of unity forthcoming from such a council would be between the Roman Catholic and Eastern churches.

Since the 16th century Reformation, the Roman church and most Protestant denominations have been moving apart rapidly through new interpretations of old doctrines.

Little Doctrinal Change

The Eastern churches, on the other hand, have undergone very little doctrinal changes since 1054, which is generally agreed upon as the year in which the East-West schism became irreconcilable.

The creed of Eastern churches is based upon the decision of the first seven ecumenical councils. Later major statements of doctrine largely have defined relations with Protestants and Roman Catholics.

In the recent past, the Roman Church has shown extraordinary consideration to those groups that splintered from the Eastern churches and recognized the primacy of the Pope.

Rival Rome

They retained their old Eastern rites — Byzantine, Alexandrian, Antiochian, Armenian and Chaldean — which differ from the Latin rites in liturgy. Some of their clergy may marry, but Latin priests may not.

The break between the Christian churches of the East and West began as early as the year 330 when the Roman Emperor Constantine moved his court from Rome to Byzantium, later Constantinople, now Istanbul.

Constantinople, steeped in the tradition of the Greek philosophers, soon rivaled Rome as the fountain of Christian leadership. Most of the early creeds condemned as heresies arose in the East.

Split On Creed

The final break between Rome and Constantinople came over the creed word "filioque" — and from the Son. The West held that the Holy Spirit came directly from the Father and Son; the East, only from the Son.

Unlike the Roman Catholic Church, the Eastern churches are not ruled by a single supreme pontiff. Their system of church government has been best described as "an oligarchy of patriarchs."

There are five major patriarchs, independent of each other, in Constantinople, Alexandria, Antioch, Jerusalem and Moscow. There also are lesser independent patriarchs for the Serbs, Romanians, and Georgians.

Yonkers Raceway in New York was refurbished for the 1958 season at a cost of $18,500,000.

2 WANT MORE PAGE BOYS TO INCLUDE NEGRO

By RICHARD WESLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol officials questioned Friday whether even the creation of an additional House page boy job would open to James A. Johnson Jr. the position he thought he had.

Johnson, 14, is the Chicago Negro who came here to take the job only to find it already filled. Reps. Barratt O'Hara (D-Ill.) and James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) said they would seek to increase the number of House pages from 50 to 51 to make room for Johnson.

They broached the idea to Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), chairman of the House Patronage Committee, but he was reported cool to the suggestion on the ground that at least 15 prior applicants are waiting for the first opening.

Never Was Appointed

Walter had told newsmen earlier that Johnson had never been appointed to the job and that the only opening for the Chicago area had been filled.

O'Hara, who had recommended Johnson for the job, explained the mix-up as a case of mistaken identity. He said the Patronage Committee had thought he and Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien (D-Ill.) were nominating the same boy. O'Brien's nominee, Martin J. Oberman of Chicago, got the job.

If Johnson had got the job, he would have been the first Negro congressional page in the memory of veteran Capitol employees, but all the congressional parties involved denied there was any tinge of racial bias in the affair.

Carl and Herman Belz of Haddon Heights, N. J., are 21-year-old seniors on Princeton's basketball team. Both weigh 190 pounds. They are twins.

We Dedicate This Anniversary to the Living Charter Members of Gettysburg Aerie No. 1562 Who Have Continued Membership Since Their Initiation January 29, 1907

EAGLE PIONEERS . . . trails. Early in this century, Eagles pioneered in fighting for mothers' pensions and workmen's compensation acts. In the 20's and 30's Eagles pioneered in working for old age pensions and Social Security.

January 29 marked the 52nd Anniversary of the founding of The Fraternal Order of Eagles in Gettysburg in 1907. Today the members of Fraternal Order of Eagles are leading the fight to end age barriers in employment. You can help the Eagle campaign for "Jobs after 40." Write your U. S. Senator and Congressman urging early passage of the bill outlawing job discrimination against over-40 workers.
